

Memo to File

Ceppellini

Discussion with Hal Holman, February 15. 1961

We agreed that it would be desirable to go ahead with an approach to Ceppellini on the basis that his long term role would be in the Department of Medicine. However, for the present, Medicine is primarily committed to the development of its clinical staff. Genetics would agree to furnish on a revocable three-year basis salary support and space equivalent to his succeeding to Gus Nossal's role in the Department. However, at that time, or whenever before then it becomes feasible, Medicine would take over full responsibility. Holman is discussing a salary in the range of $17,500 with an additional bonus for travel expenses.

A somewhat similar question may come up with respect to Adelman from the Rockefeller Institute and I raised the possibility that it might interest to procure some of the space that would be vacated by Rotman. However, this would be strictly on a one-year basis.

If this works out, then the roster for four labs in the basement for 1961-62 would be (1) LAH (2) Ceppellini (3 years) (3) Adelman (1 year) (4) Exobiology.
